Argo has a fashionable style, powerful extraction at a low noise, along with an economical energy rating. It is easy to understand why it is so popular. The dimensions are slightly narrower than most hoods, which makes it the preferred choice for between cabinets. It can be installed with or without the chimney and ducting is simplified by a reversible motor, which allows the installer to duct to the top, or directly to the back (horizontally).

For recirculation, the installation of the chimney is optional but a metal grate is advised as a safety precaution to cover the duct opening. The turnable motor makes the Argo unique in that it can be installed without a chimney also when ducting out.
